

WRITTEN SUBMISSION FROM HARRY GOUDIE

Climate change happens all the time. I don't believe that we are experiencing man made climate change and therefore there is nothing we can do to influence it.

However, if I am wrong, and we are causing climate change then we have to address the problem at source and that is human population. If you reduce the world population by half then you will reduce emissions by half and that should fix your climate change problem!

The questions that you should be asking are:

1. Is there a climate problem?
2. Are we causing a climate problem?

Please don't spend yet more money on something that probably does not exist or on something that is beyond our power to change.

Harry Goudie